Contractors

Direct Contact Contractors are individuals who provide contractor services to any EREA school or college where, in the normal course of providing their services, they are likely to have direct contact with children, in circumstances where they:

- > are likely to be left alone, one-on-one, with a child; or

- > a reasonable person would consider the contact may enable the individual to form a relationship of trust with a child; or

- > a reasonable person would consider the contact to create a risk to the safety of a child.

Examples of Direct Contact Contractors may include:

- > regular contracted maintenance workers;

- > consultants;

- > tutors;

- > specialist music or drama teachers;

- > sporting team coaches;

- > outdoor education specialists; or

- > physical education service providers.

Regular Contractors are individuals who provide contractor services to any EREA school or college at or exceeding the minimum frequency for a Working with Children Check (or equivalent), and are not Direct Contact Contractors.

Casual Contractors are individuals who provide contractor services to any EREA school or college for less than the minimum frequency for a Working with Children Check (or equivalent), during which they may have some contact with children, but only in circumstances where they:

- > are not left alone, one-on-one, with a child or young person; and

- > a reasonable person would not consider the contact to enable the individual to form a relationship of trust with a child or young person; and

- > a reasonable person would not consider the contact to create a risk to the safety of a child or young person.

Casual Contractors include individuals who, in the circumstances described above, have less than the minimum frequency for a Working with Children Check (or equivalent). They may:

- > provide one-off emergency maintenance work at a school

- > give a speech, performance or presentation at a school

- > provide assistance with activities at school sports days (e.g. lifeguards).

Blue Cards

Who Needs a Blue Card?

The Working with Children Act and Working with Children Regulations require that, subject to the exemptions referred to below, persons who are employed in regulated employment, or who carry on regulated businesses must possess a Working With Children Clearance (a Blue Card).

People require a Blue Card when their usual function at or their employment by the Centre (including as a Volunteer or Contractor) includes, or is likely to include, providing services directed mainly towards, or conducting activities that mainly involve, children.

People who work with children with disability may need both a disability worker clearance and a Blue Card. People who need both can apply for both at once for one fee.

The Education (Accreditation of Non-State Schools) Act 2017 (Qld) also requires directors of non-state schools to have a current Blue Card or Exemption Card before they can commence work as a director at the Centre.

Therefore, at Inala Flexible Learning Centre, the following people require a Blue Card:

- members of the School Board who are not also teachers or Queensland police officers
- all paid staff members (other than teachers)
- Direct Contact Volunteers (other than parents)
- Direct Contact Contractors

- student teachers
- teachers aides
- Centre crossing supervisors.

For all the above (except School Board members and Contractors), a Blue Card is only legally required if the employment meets the frequency test.

Who Doesn't Need a Blue Card?

Under Queensland law, people who are not legally required to hold a Blue Card cannot apply for one.

A Blue Card is not legally required if an employee (other than a School Board member) does not meet the frequency test.

The following employees also do not need a Blue Card, regardless of how often they work at the Centre:

- registered teachers with the Queensland College of Teachers (QCT)
- registered health practitioners, including registered nurses
- child volunteers (aged under 18)
- Volunteers who are a parent of a child attending the Centre.

Staff members with current QCT teacher registration do not require additional Blue Card screening as their registration includes equivalent checks. They may however need to apply for an Exemption Card in the event that they provide other child-related services at the Centre, in addition to their normal professional duties. For more information, refer to Exemption Cards.

Registered health practitioners do not require additional screening as registration includes equivalent checks. They may however need to apply for a Blue Card in the event that they provide other child-related services, in addition to their normal professional duties. For example, a nurse who also provides music lessons or supervises after school hours care would require a Blue Card.

Statutory Declarations by certain Staff, Volunteers and Contractors who are Blue Card Exempt

It is the Centre's policy that certain Staff, Volunteers and Contractors who are legally exempt from holding a Blue Card must complete and provide to the Centre, prior to commencing their engagement by the Centre:

- a Statutory Declaration that they have no offences that would disqualify them from applying for a Blue Card under the Working with Children Act and
- an Undertaking to advise the Centre if they become a disqualified person or a restricted person or are convicted of a relevant serious offence.

This requirement applies in particular to the following employment (within the meaning of the Working with Children Act):

- non-teaching staff members who do not meet the frequency test for regulated employment
- Regular Contractors who do not provide services directed towards, or conduct activities mainly involving, children (e.g. regular maintenance workers and cleaners)
- Direct Contact Volunteers who do not meet the frequency test but who, in the opinion of the Centre, provide services in a situation that could enable the establishment of a relationship of trust with one or more students

- Regular Volunteers who do not provide services directed towards, or conduct activities mainly involving, children (e.g. Regular Volunteers in the administration office)
- Parent Volunteers who:
 - are Regular Volunteers
 - are Direct Contact Volunteers and have unsupervised contact with children other than their own child, regardless of the frequency of their volunteering (eg, supervising a group of children on an excursion without a staff member present, providing one-on-one learning or examination assistance) or
 - volunteer at an overnight camp or excursion.
